Living360 FAMILY

Looking out for those closest to you needn't cause stress. Whether you're trying to find the perfect school for your child, an easy way to improve their digital literacy or a holiday destination that meets both yours and your children's needs, this comprehensive guide will help you feel secure and confident in your family decisions.

HAPPIER AT WORK THAN IN LOVE?

Home can be a hard place to feel alone, especially for career couples who succeed everywhere else
At work they may be decisive, driven and in demand. At home, they might feel helpless, caught in the same argument or silence. Neither partner can break it. Nobody ever taught them how. Because love isn't just sentiment — it's strategy.

Andrea Love leads The Couple Therapist, a specialist practice for career couples. Whether distressed, distant or ambivalent, both parties can find refuge and a roadmap. Weekly sessions or half-day, one-day and two-day intensives can deliver real progress, real fast. Couples can come home to each other again.

BIG FEELINGS FOR LITTLE ONES

Helping children understand their feelings, believe in themselves and grow up emotionally strong
Born from founder Esther Marshall's personal experience of grief, Sophie Says creates books and resources that give young children the words and tools to understand their emotions.

Through colourful stories, relatable characters and simple, positive messages, Sophie Says helps parents tackle the conversations that aren't always easy, from big feelings and confidence to mistakes, resilience and being proud of who you are.

And every purchase goes further. Through its Buy One Donate One model, Sophie Says gives books to children who may not otherwise have access to them, helping more little ones feel understood, supported and big inside.

'IT JUST FELT LIKE US'

Academic excellence and great opportunities are just two reasons why families feel at home at Bedford Modern School
'It just felt like us; it felt like the right fit.' It's a sentiment often shared by families when describing why they chose Bedford Modern School (BMS). As the largest academically selective school in Bedfordshire, BMS combines academic excellence with an exceptional breadth of opportunity, helping students develop not only strong results but also the confidence, character and resilience to succeed long after they leave school.

At the heart of the school is its ethos of 'excelling together' — a commitment to partnership between students, staff and families. High expectations are balanced with genuine care, creating an environment where students feel supported, challenged and inspired to fulfil their potential.

BMS is also recognised as a leading co-educational school. With more than 20 years' experience educating boys and girls together and a broadly equal gender balance throughout the School, BMS has developed a culture in which all students can thrive, learn from one another and build the interpersonal skills that will serve them throughout life.

This commitment has received external recognition. For the second consecutive year, BMS was awarded the Telegraph's highest, 'very good', rating for value for money, while also being commended in the Independent Schools of the Year Awards for its co-educational provision.

For many families, these accolades simply reinforce what they experience when they visit: a welcoming, ambitious and inclusive school where young people are equipped with the skills, confidence and character to thrive in an ever-changing world.

● BMS welcomes students aged seven to 18. Open Day: 7 November 2026. Book a personal tour. Scan the QR code or visit bedmod.co.uk

UNPLUG AND CONNECT

Unplugged Tots encourages children to be the creators, not consumers, of their entertainment
While screens are integral to modern life, Hannah Hagon champions a balanced approach to young people learning digital literacy skills through unplugged play. The Unplugged Tots® and Unplugged Teens™ founder shows families that screen-free activities involving everyday, low-cost items can spark critical thinking, logical reasoning, pattern spotting and problem-solving skills in children aged two-and-a-half and up. In our AI world, these, alongside human skills, are more important than ever. Children are tomorrow's problem-solvers and by curating engaging opportunities using craft, baking and nature, adults can help them practice these skills. Tomorrow's workforce is built in today's living rooms with cardboard towers and giggles.

● "Unplugged Tots" (Raspberry Pi Press) gives parents and educators 100% screen-free, play-based activities that foster problem-solving, logic and creativity in a comic-strip style book. Order a copy rpimag.co/unpluggedbook

A RECORD YEAR FOR SHREWSBURY

Shrewsbury has achieved a record number of national awards for its whole person approach to education
The School is celebrating one of its strongest years for national recognition, winning accolades across multiple areas, from leadership to charitable work.

Among its latest honours in 2026, the School has won Best Partnerships in The Week Independent Schools Guide's Awards, Charitable Work Champion at the School House Awards and was selected as a finalist for Outstanding Fundraising Achievement in the Independent School of the Year Awards.

These successes reflect Shrewsbury's mission to ensure each Salopian feels valued, safe and inspired to pursue their personal bests and contribute positively to the world around them.

Its Partnership and Community Engagement programme has drawn praise for its scale and impact. In 2025-26, more than 1,100 pupils from Alpha Academies Trust took part in mentoring, academic enrichment and shared learning, supported by over 660 hours from 60 Shrewsbury staff.

Pupils raised more than £150,000 for charities and contributed over 850 hours of volunteering.

Further accolades include Tatler's Best Head of a Public School Award for headmaster Leo Winkley, being named in Spear's Schools Index of the top 100 private schools and an Education Choices Award for Working with Local Charities.

Headmaster Leo Winkley said: "As we approach our 475th year, we're very proud to have won three national awards highlighting our Partnership and Community Engagement Programme, which is central to our ethos of 'Survival of the Kindest'.

"All our pupils benefit from caring for and connecting with others and developing a strong sense of social responsibility.

"Behind each award are the pupils and staff who live our Salopian values every day — through volunteering, fundraising, mentoring and countless acts of kindness, commitment and encouragement."

BUILDING TRUE UNDERSTANDING

Aquinas Tuition is on a mission to help children understand and engage in learning
Inspired by the 13th-century Catholic philosopher, Thomas Aquinas, part of Aquinas Tuition's pedagogical mission is to help pupils truly understand what they're taught. Aquinas once said: "I have understood every page I ever read." Aquinas Tuition's bespoke learning model is centred on this philosophy and it's the company's belief that, with tailored support and true comprehension of subject knowledge, pupils thrive, often exceeding their own expectations.

Offering personalised tuition from professional teachers and exceptional subject specialists, Aquinas supports pupils in England and Scotland preparing for the 11+ and independent school entrance through to GCSE, A-levels and Scottish National Qualifications.

FAMILUX RESORTS

Where autumn colours and winter wonderlands create unforgettable family memories
As the golden colours of autumn settle across the mountains and forests and winter slowly transforms the landscape into a sparkling wonderland, the Familux Resorts in Austria and Germany become the perfect setting for magical family moments. Here, every season tells its own story — from crisp autumn walks through colourful forests to exciting winter adventures in the snow. Designed entirely around the needs of families, Familux Resorts combines inspiring nature, exceptional comfort and professional childcare to create a premium holiday experience that both children and parents will treasure.

Each of the four resorts offers a unique gateway into nature. Whether in the Tyrolean mountains, the picturesque Salzkammergut, the impressive Allgäu Alps or the peaceful Thuringian Forest, the surroundings provide endless opportunities for discovery. In autumn, families wander along peaceful trails through golden forests, breathe in the fresh mountain air and enjoy panoramic views under clear blue skies. As winter approaches, the same landscapes transform into enchanting snow-covered playgrounds, inviting families to explore, play and reconnect.

When the first snow arrives, the regions surrounding the resorts reveal their full winter magic. Family-friendly ski slopes, exciting snowboard runs, toboggan tracks and scenic winter hiking paths lie just moments away. Cross-country trails wind through silent, snow-covered valleys, while children experience the thrill of their first turns on the slopes. In Oberjoch, a particularly family-friendly highlight awaits: children can ski free of charge, making winter sports even more accessible for families.

Modern ski rental facilities, convenient shuttle services and patient ski coaches ensure that even beginners can start their winter adventure with ease. At The Grand Green — Familux Resort, the Lotto Thüringen Ski Sport Hall provides ideal cross-country skiing conditions throughout the year. Guests at Alpenrose — Familux Resort can also enjoy access to the nearby Zugspitze glacier, known for its reliable snow conditions and breathtaking Alpine scenery.

Yet the magic of an autumn and winter stay at Familux Resorts extends far beyond the outdoors. One of the most valuable experiences for families is the in-house Swim Academy. Here, children learn to swim or improve their technique in small groups under the guidance of experienced instructors. Lessons are designed to be playful and confidence-building, allowing children to develop an essential life skill while enjoying their holiday.

Water fun continues in the resorts' impressive indoor and outdoor pool worlds. Warm children's pools, fun slides and spacious swimming areas provide hours of entertainment, while adults enjoy peaceful swims in infinity pools or relaxing moments in the extensive spa and sauna landscapes. After a day in the crisp mountain air, the soothing warmth of the wellness areas feels especially rewarding.

Beyond the slopes and pools, families discover an entire world of indoor adventures. Kids' clubs, creative workshops, cinemas, virtual reality rooms and go-kart tracks offer endless possibilities for play and imagination. Professional Kids' Coaches care for babies from just seven days old through to teenagers, allowing parents to enjoy well-deserved moments of quiet relaxation — perhaps in the spa, on a winter walk or by the fireplace.

Culinary experiences add another highlight to each day. Refined gourmet menus, regional seasonal specialities and live-cooking stations create memorable dining moments for every generation. As evening falls, families retreat to spacious suites, luxurious chalets or stylish rooms that offer warmth, comfort and a sense of home.

With numerous awards recognising its exceptional quality, Familux Resorts offer far more than a holiday. It creates a place where autumn's golden calm and winter's sparkling excitement come together, giving families the chance to slow down, reconnect and create memories that will last long after the season ends.

PREPARING GIRLS TO LEAD LIFE WITHOUT LIMITS

The Study Prep offers an exceptional education for girls aged four to 11, combining academic excellence with confidence-building opportunities
Now proudly part of the Girls' Day School Trust, The Study Prep is committed to creating an environment where girls are encouraged to find their voice, take risks and develop a lifelong love of learning. Expert teaching and a broad, ambitious curriculum ensure girls are both supported and challenged, enabling every child to achieve her best.

Beyond the classroom, an extensive programme of enrichment helps bring learning to life. Outdoor Learning through The Muddy Study, residential trips and activity weeks, creative arts, sport, languages and cultural experiences foster independence, resilience and collaboration. The school's specialist SEND provision and strong pastoral care ensure that each girl is supported to succeed.

The Study Prep develops confident and compassionate girls, equipped to thrive at leading senior schools and shape their own futures. It achieves this through a warm community and a "greenhouse rather than hothouse" approach that nurtures both achievement and childhood.

AN EXCITING NEW ERA BEGINS

With the arrival of headmaster John Floyd and a new leadership team, Summer Fields looks forward to a bright future shaped by ambition, kindness and opportunity
This September marks the beginning of a new chapter at Summer Fields Oxford with the appointment of John Floyd as Headmaster, bringing with him a wealth of experience, fresh energy and a shared commitment to ensuring Summer Fields remains one of the country's leading preparatory schools while preparing boys for the opportunities and challenges of tomorrow.

For John Floyd, this appointment is particularly meaningful. Having been a Summer Fields parent since 2018, with all four of his sons attending the school's pre-prep and prep, he already knows and values the qualities that make the school so special. Combined with his extensive leadership experience at Bruern Abbey School and within the Bellevue Schools Group, he's uniquely placed to lead Summer Fields into its next era.

Summer Fields has long been renowned for combining academic excellence with an exceptional co-curricular offering. In 2026, four pupils were awarded the prestigious King's Scholarships to Eton alongside academic scholarships to St Edward's Oxford, Marlborough College and Radley College, which reflects the school's strong academic foundations and commitment to helping every boy achieve his full potential. Small class sizes, personalised learning and outstanding teaching ensure that boys are known, supported and challenged from their earliest years.

Set within 70 acres on the banks of the River Cherwell, the school offers an environment in which boys can truly flourish. More than 100 co-curricular activities, together with sport across 23 disciplines, provide opportunities for every pupil to discover new interests and develop confidence beyond the classroom. Music, drama and the performing arts remain central to school life, nurturing creativity, character and self-belief.

Under its new leadership, Summer Fields will continue to honour the values and traditions that have shaped generations of boys while embracing new ideas and opportunities. John Floyd's vision centres on developing confident, curious and compassionate young people through a modern, ambitious education that balances academic achievement with wellbeing, character and a genuine love of learning.

Building on its proud heritage while embracing new opportunities, Summer Fields enters a new era of ambition and purpose, inspiring boys to aim high, think boldly and contribute positively to the world around them.

● Visit summerfields.com to discover how Summer Fields is shaping the next generation of confident, capable and well-rounded boys.

PREP SCHOOL EXCELLENCE IN SURREY

Hazelwood School in Oxted offers an exceptional prep education for boys and girls aged from nine months to 13 years
At Hazelwood School in Oxted, childhood comes first. Set in the Surrey Hills, this vibrant prep school combines academic excellence and high expectations with a wonderfully down-to-earth approach.

At the heart of Hazelwood is a simple question: what's best for the children and the community? It shapes everything from the school's strong pastoral care to the genuine relationships between pupils and staff. Children are encouraged to be themselves, discover their strengths and develop the confidence to aim high.

Academic standards are ambitious, with pupils challenged and supported to achieve their best. Innovative classrooms, flexible seating and superb facilities create an environment where children can feel comfortable, curious and engaged.

TUITION YOU CAN COUNT ON

Record-breaking year as North Finchley Tutors students achieve their highest-ever percentage of grades 8–9
At Finchley-based North Finchley Tutors (NFT), families whose children have just won grammar school places through its 11+ programme are already reserving GCSE places, up to four years in advance. Its Year 10 and 11 programme is now one of the most sought-after in north London and beyond.

Students learn from an exceptional team of English, maths and science specialists, including teachers who hold senior leadership roles in top schools at their new Centre of Excellence for GCSE students.

The centre's Easter School (Paper 1) and May half-term course (Paper 2) are also open to non-NFT students, who are travelling from far and wide to take part.

"Our students have achieved results beyond anything we imagined," said director Ali Baig. "Families trust us from the 11+ right through to GCSE, and that says everything."
